Wm. J. Ford, PTC Operator, Freed After Demur Is Sustained

OAKFORD ACCIDENT

Mother of Victim Could Not Recall What Happened

DOYLESTOWN, June 6—A charge of involuntary manslaughter against William J. Ford, Jr., 59, of 3428 East Wellington street, Philadelphia, a PTC bus driver, was dropped here in Bucks county criminal court when Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite sustained a demur to the Commonwealth's testimony. Ford was arrested by State Police after the bus that he was driving was in a collision with a station wagon driven by Mrs. Marcella Walters, 33, of Trevose Heights, at Oakford, Bucks county, Oct. 12, 1951. Her 2½-year-old son, Harry J. Walters was killed. Three others were injured.

When Mrs. Walters took the witness stand she said that she could not recall what happened, because she herself was badly injured. Her son, riding in the back seat, was thrown out of his mother's station wagon.

Mrs. Walters' two other sons, Leon, 4, and Patrick, 18 months, suffered fractured skulls in the wreck. Ford and three passengers in the bus escaped injury.

Attorney Thomas Ross, of Doylestown, for the defendant Ford, made the motion to the court to rule on the demur to the evidence presented by Assistant District Attorney J. Franklin Hartzel, of Doylestown. The jury in the

Walter Pitzonka Speaks At Green Thumb Club Session

The Winder Village Green Thumb Club held its June meeting last night at the Oscar Norbeck home, Winder Village.

The guest speaker was Walter Pitzonka. He stressed the importance of proper soil preparation as a major factor in good gardening. He said that the choice of flowers and plants be considered on the bases of the growers soil in order to insure a hardy and lasting growth.

Mr. Pitzonka suggested a list of perennials that can be planted in order to have color during the entire summer. If the gardener prefers a cool looking garden he should plant white and pastel colors and to plant bright colored flowers for a warm looking garden.

In closing, he projected a set of beautiful colored slides taken at the Pitzonka Pansy Farm.

Included in the set were pictures of the thousands of pansy plants supplied by the Pitzonka Farm for the 1959 World Fair.

After the meeting, club member Georges Eysenbach gave all the members present some plants from his garden.

Club Advisor Arthur Seyfert is making soil tests for all the members.

The next meeting will be held Thursday evening, July 10, at which time the members will have an opportunity to display individual flower arrangements which will be judged and constructively criticized by Mrs. Walter Pitzonka.

The guest speaker will be announced in the next club bulletin.

AWARDS GIVEN TO LANGHORNE GRADUATES

Sixty in Class at The Annual Commencement Exercises Held Last Evening

By Staff Reporter
LANGHORNE, June 6 — Sixty members of the class of 1952, in white caps and gowns, last evening took part in a procession across the campus of Neshaminy high school to participate in the commencement exercises of the 57th class and to receive diplomas as a climax to an outstanding program. One received a diploma upon condition.

The program, attended by a large number of lower Bucks county residents, was marked by an address by Dr. Joseph Noonan, president of State Teachers College, East Stroudsburg; the awarding of prizes; music; and presentation of the commencement theme, "Man's Quest for Peace", by four of the graduates.

The diplomas were presented by John E. Paul, president of the Neshaminy Joint School Board, who advised the graduates: "Try and keep your parents as proud of you all your lives as they are proud of you. Do only as your conscience dictates." He urged the young folks who are about to enter the business and professional world to apply themselves, "be willing and be pleasant."

Student speakers of the four-part theme presentation were: Fedora deClerie, who spoke on "Causes of War"; Ronald Hartz, "The United Nations—Structure and Purpose"; Nancy Nielsen, "The Role of the United States"; Barbara Tetlow, "The Community and the Individual."

Dr. Noonan, the speaker of the evening, stressed character building and dwelt on need for the individual to adjust himself to the society of which he is a part. Referring to the student theme he said "There should be no spirit of defeatism. There is every reason to believe that good judgment of the people of the United States and of the world will be shown as they express themselves . . . that war will no longer be a threat, and that peace will come in its finest form to all the world." He emphasized that peace, first, must come to the individual—to those threatened with uncertainty, those who are "mixed up".

THE MILITARY ISSUE

In Two Parts
PART ONE

The arts of propaganda and semantics have been brought to bear on behalf of General Eisenhower to make it appear that there would be nothing unusual in taking a professional, full-time career soldier, who has done nothing else of any consequence in his whole life save practice the science of war and preparation for war—and making such a man president of the American republic.

Because the American people have had, ever since the founding of this republic, a deep-seated prejudice against rule by the military, as contrasted with rule by civilians, it is being argued fallaciously that General Eisenhower, if elevated to the White House, would merely be following precedents established by General George Washington, General Andrew Jackson, General U. S. Grant, General Zachary Taylor, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, and a host of others having lesser military records—including one Private Harry Truman!

If this is confusing to the lay public of this generation, it is merely because "the man in the street" doesn't know as much about the issue of military rule as his ancestors did, and therefore isn't keen enough to distinguish between those who have been soldiers incidental to other occupations, and those who have dedicated their lives to the military profession.

A comparison will easily show the difference. General Eisenhower, as noted above, has been a soldier all his life. His education was strictly on the military side, and his experience has been almost exclusively in military affairs—his brief service as President of Columbia University was merely an honorary sinecure.

Compare him with Pennsylvania's General Edward Martin, who also has been a soldier throughout his life—ever since he enlisted as a teen-age boy for the Spanish-American War. Note the differences. General Eisenhower's education, as pointed out, was strictly military. General Martin, on the other hand, was educated as a lawyer. General Eisenhower was exclusively a military man; General Martin engaged in business practiced law, was active in politics.

During the period when General Martin was rising through the ranks from the humblest military position to one of the

Old Mill Ruins Being Razed For Office Building

What for years has been an eye sore in the Fourth Ward on Buckley street, is rapidly disappearing. The ruins of "the old Buckley street mill" are being razed.

Workmen armed with air drills, bulldozers and other implements of destruction have been working at the site for the past few days, leveling the ground.

The concrete foundations and water tank used by the factory in which gun cotton was processed during World War I are being leveled.

The Zoning Board of Adjustment of Bristol released the area for the building of an office building. It had been classified as "R-2" residential by the Zoning Ordinance.

Leon Freeman, Philadelphia, will build a one-story office building on the site to be leased to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the use of the State Employment Service, which now occupies offices on the second floor of 216 Mill street.

The Grant Stores have purchased 216 Mill street.

An "off-street" parking area is planned in connection with the Buckley street office building.

Intruder at Morrisville Throws Girl Against Trellis

MORRISVILLE, June 6 — An attempt was made to break into the house of Milton Bacowsky, 118 Harper avenue, last evening at 8:25. According to a spokesman for the family, Mrs. Bacowsky's daughter, Sharor Gear, 15, of the Harper street address, was sitting on the front porch of her home when she heard the breaking of glass, and spotted an intruder trying to break into the cellar.

Before she could escape to give the warning, the thief grabbed the girl and threw her against a trellis near the cellar door. Letting go of the girl, the burglar ran out into the yard and fled. She suffered a head injury and scratches of the body, police said.

Morrisville Police Chief John Davis along with Pts. Stanley Naprawa and Joseph Cavanaugh investigated.

LANGHORNE COUNCIL PASSES ORDINANCE

Grants State Highway Dep't Right to Improve Roadway

CURBS AND GUTTERS

By Staff Reporter
LANGHORNE, June 6 — The Langhorne Borough Council passed three ordinances concerning the improvements of State Highway 232 through the Borough at last night's regular meeting. The ordinances, in effect, grant the Highway Dept. the right to repave Rt. 232 on Pine and Richardson and requires landowners with frontage on those two streets to install curbing and sidewalks.

Six of the 65 residents affected by these ordinances were present at the meeting. Almost a mile of street is involved; on Pine between Richardson and Winchester and on Richardson between the Borough Line and Pine street.

The residents in attendance stated that they had come to learn about the ordinances and discover what is to be required of them. Councilman Robert May attempted to answer their questions. May stated that the Council has been after the State Highway Dept. for over three years to improve the street. He said that the conditions on Richardson ave. were not good. May said that the Highway Dept. has decided to fix the roads, but that curbs and sidewalks must be completed before they will start the job. He added that there will be no change in the width of Richardson west of Bellevue, but that it was hoped that east of Bellevue it could be widened by two feet.

May further explained that all existing sidewalks that are in good condition and meet the grade requirements will not be expected to be redone. May said that this

MAN IS SERIOUSLY BURNED SPRAYING FIELD OF CARROTS

Unusual Accident Occurs On King Farms In Falls Township

INSECTICIDE IGNITES

Leonides Cordero's Clothing Catches Fire; Burning Paper Bags is Cause

FALLS TOWNSHIP, June 6—An employee of King Farms Company, Leonides Cordero, about 40, was seriously burned yesterday as the result of an unusual accident.

Leonides, according to report, was riding on a spraying machine yesterday afternoon shortly before three o'clock, in a field along Mill Creek road, guarding the operation of the machine that was pulled by a tractor.

The men were in the process of spraying a field of carrots with an oil insecticide spray. Several men in an adjoining field had been spreading lime and were burning the paper bags that had contained the lime. It is believed the tractor and sprayer were driven too close to the smoldering fire and the fine vapor coming from the sprayer ignited, and the clothes of Mr. Cordero caught fire and were partly burned.

The Bucks County Rescue Squad was summoned and removed the man to Mercer Hospital, Trenton, N. J., where it is said he is in serious condition.

IS POVERTY POPULAR?

Do people like poverty, filth and disease? Or do people who live under such conditions merely oppose change? Are they too lazy and good-for-nothing to do something about it?

In Egypt, for instance, where two thirds of village families have incomes of less than a dollar a day, it is widely held that the villagers don't want anything better—they resist change.

The Rockefeller Foundation, after working for four and one-half years with Egyptian villages, refutes this conclusion. Members of the mission are not Egyptians but they assert they put the theory to severe tests in five villages.

In four, they made major changes with the help of the villagers. They tore down most of the sagging, unsanitary homes, persuaded the villagers to stop keeping livestock in the house, and generally changed the face of the community.

In the fifth village they avoided turning things topsy-turvy, and merely helped provide sewage disposal, fly control and clean water.

What happened? Residents of the fifth village began to complain. Why weren't they getting all the fine things provided for the other four villages? As the news spread, people from villages outside the five began to demand changes in their towns, too. And they wanted to help bring them about.

The notion that the poor oppose change and are apathetic is not wholly false. But give them real hope—anywhere in the world—and they'll respond.

VAN FLEET STEPS IN

As if U. S. troubles in Korea were not plentiful enough, President Syngman Rhee and the National Assembly of the South Korean Republic are engaged in a bitter feud. And President Rhee has chosen to bring the quarrel to a climax just at this time by imposing martial law on the country.

It is true that to invoke martial law is not unusual in a country that has been through the crises that have been Korea's lot during these last two years. But it looks as though Rhee may intend to have a showdown with the National Assembly. The result, either way, would not make the task of the U. S. easier.

That is the thinking, no doubt, that led General Van Fleet to make a special trip to Pusan, temporary capital of South Korea, for a conference with Rhee. It is noteworthy that General Van Fleet did not wait until this situation had gotten out of hand. There has been too much of that in Korea recently.

Illinois man left his $40,000 state in trust for the benefit of his 12 dogs, thus contributing, no doubt, to unrest among the canine population.

president of the Penna. State Education Ass'n, reminded that "in the field of scientific development the world has made undreamed of progress; in the social world men are being concerned with the poor and the unfortunate and are using their resources to push forward the good of all; in the world of the spiritual we can take into account those values we hold dear."

"So I say to you young men and young women that never before has there been thrown into the world of opportunity so rich and varied an assortment of possibilities for growth and development. Numerous are the fields open to trained young folk. There is nothing at all too big or too far away or too distantly removed from your reach that should cause disillusionment." He added that if the choice was his, "I could ask for nothing more than to be thrown into 1952 at the age of 18 or 20 with the vast challenge before me." He stated: "With confidence in the future it is possible to earn a livelihood with a reasonable amount of work. But remember it is all bound up with the doctrine of hard work. . . . There is no easy way to success. A hint of any other reason is spurious. . . . In addition to hard work there are certain other factors you young people should consider. One is the ability to distinguish between right and wrong—the building of character." The need of "back-bone" was stressed, and "wishy-washy" thinking was derided. "Such can ruin America," he warned.

The attributes of courtesy, consideration, unselfishness and willingness to please and to help others were held out as being necessary for a full-fold life. Development of self-respect, self-reliance and dignity were impressed upon the graduates. "All in all, these mean the building of the kind of citizenship we in America have been so proud of all these years."

In regard to respect for law and authority, Dr. Noonan had this to say: "Let us not, in these days of loose thinking, be fooled by false doctrine that people can do as they please. Let us recognize those traditional values which need to be considered." One point strongly brought out was: "This matter of recognizing God, this matter of building in all our relationships some communication with a Divine Being. . . . is almost at the top of the things we should do. It will act as a bulwark to our democratic ideals to which we all subscribe."

Dr. Heckman paid tribute to the parents of the graduates who had aided in keeping the young folks in school to finish their courses, and asked that all those parents rise for a round of applause. He paid special tribute also to the following teachers who had assisted with the commencement program and projects: Miss Georgiana Staehle, William E. Macht, Paul T. Haas, Robert W. Hassell (class advisor), Stanley D. Howell, Mrs. Romaine E. Macht, Miss Joan L. Matern.

Dr. Heckman mentioned that with 2300 pupils in a 25 square mile area, under 80 instructors, and with the area fast-growing, problems are increasing. He foresees soon a high school of 1500. The superintendent of schools mentioned that half sessions will be necessary for the high school next year, adding "Regardless of what conditions are, the faculty will do all possible to provide the best education possible."

The invocation was by the Rev. John Harvey, pastor of Langhorne Presbyterian Church; benediction by the Rev. Curtis L. Loux of Oakhurst Chapel, Penndel. The high school band and chorus provided selections. Address of welcome was by Donald Leitch, class president.

The following awards were presented by Dr. Heckman:

BRISTOL BOWLERS SCORE LOW TOTAL IN ABC "TOURNEY"

MILWAUKEE, June 6—The Auto Boys bowling team rolling in the National Tournament, the "American Bowling Congress" at Milwaukee, Wisconsin scored a very low total in the team event.

In the two-man event the teams of Moore-Sutton and Dutcavich-Plavin rolled better than average scores and finished "in the money".

In the individual event Abe Gerhart was the only man to finish "in the money" with his 612 total.

The thrill of bowling in an American Bowling Congress is "out of this world"—and despite the disappointing scores the Auto Boys bowling team will in all likelihood try again at Chicago next year.

KOWAL PITCHES AND BATS TEAM TO WIN

Teddy Kowal pitched and batted the Eagles to a close 3-2 triumph over the Giants last evening in a Bristol Boys' League game on Leedom's field.

Kowal allowed two hits and fanned 16 batters. He blanked the Giants until the seventh when they pushed over two runs. The third and tying run was killed at the plate when the runner attempted to score on a passed ball.

With the stick, Kowal socked out a home run in the fourth inning. No one was on base at the time.

The Military Issue

highest, he also was rising in civilian activities. He moved by stages up to membership of the Republican State Committee in 1912; was successively State Auditor General and State Treasurer; served from 1928 to 1934 as State Chairman of the Republican Party; was delegate to five national conventions; served a term as Governor, and is now completing a term as U. S. Senator.

What is true of General Martin in this respect, that regardless of his military service he was so broadly experienced in civilian affairs that he was a citizen first and a soldier second—this is true of all American military men who have previously risen to the post of Presidency. It is untrue, however, of General Eisenhower, whose contacts with politics, for example, were so sketchy that he never fully made up his mind which party he belonged to until friends showed him how he might capture the Republican nomination.

The magazine "U. S. News", edited by David Lawrence, this week reviews this subject, and presents a variety of distorted statements outlining the pro-Eisenhower case. Among the comments contained is the assertion that Eisenhower, if elected, "would be the first professional soldier to go to the White House since Grant."

This concedes, of course, that all other military figures from the Civil War who became President, or were nominated therefor, were not "professional soldiers" and for that reason established no precedents for Eisenhower.

But the comparison with Grant is most interesting. To begin with, a great many persons feel that Grant was insufficiently trained for the political responsibilities of the Presidency, although the fact is that his experience was infinitely greater than that of Eisenhower. The common sentiment is that Grant's two terms were riddled with favoritism and the bartering of governmental concessions; and moreover that Grant's unfortunate attempt to win a third term left lasting scars on the Republican Party.

What was Grant's record as a "professional" soldier? If you piece the story together from such works as "Personal History of U. S. Grant (1868)" and his own "Personal Memoirs (1885)" you find that Grant was sent to West Point in 1838 by his father as a convenient means of getting an education for his son, who didn't like farming; graduated in 1843 (21st on a list of 39); served eleven years, including the Mexican War, of which he made the biting comment that it was "a political war"; remained in the army with steadily waning enthusiasm until 1854, when at the age of 32 he commenced, as a civilian, a "struggle for the support" of his family.

Thereafter Grant farmed, cut and sold cord-wood, engaged in the real estate business, clerked in his father's store, became more and more interested in the political issues of those trying times, aided the Governor of Illinois in mustering several regiments of volunteers in the early days of the Civil War, and on May 24, 1861, wrote to the U. S. Adjutant General tendering his own services "in such capacity as may be offered" until the close of the war.

Grant became well acquainted with the personnel of the U. S. Army command, as he himself comments. But he was hopelessly out of tune with brass-hat thinking, as, again, he himself brings out. It was, in fact, because as a commander and strategist he differed radically from the professional military clique of his day that he became a successful general, and with Lincoln's support was rapidly boosted into the supreme command.

From the end of the war in 1865 to the time he was nominated for the Presidency in 1868, although continuing in his military rank, General Grant served as a sort of elder statesman, becoming Secretary of War under Johnson, and passing upon quite as many non-military issues as those concerning the armed services.

Does this bring out the point? If, as is generally accepted, Grant was too ill-prepared by civilian experience to do justice to the Presidency, despite the fact that his entire military experience, West Point included, was only a little over twenty years when he moved into the White House—then how much worse off is General Eisenhower, totally devoid of practical political experience, and in fact engrossed by his military career since boyhood?

political sub-divisions, to suit the convenience of the inhabitants. Peter Court, who owns property adjacent to Delhaas school building, requested the board to divert the water that is pumped from the high school grounds, so it would not run on his land. The request was granted.

The secretary was instructed to advertise for No. 2 fuel oil, also to re-advertise for two Mack school buses. The original bids scheduled to be opened last evening for the school buses, were discarded because of changed specifications.

Walter Miller requested a $200 increase in teachers' salaries. This problem was held over until it could be studied by the finance committee. This increase was above the already scheduled increases.

The board members voted to hold a joint meeting with Bristol township School Authority, June 11th, to discuss with Albert Micklewright, architect, bids for the proposed addition to Delhaas school.

The secretary advised that approval had been received for three projects—addition to Delhaas high school, to John Fitch school and George Taylor school. ase was discharged, and the costs were placed on the county.

Leonard Mauro, 27, formerly of Bristol, now of 33 Meredith road, Trenton, N. J., was sentenced by Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite to serve not less than nine nor more than 18 months in the County Prison.

He was convicted by a jury of assault and battery April 10, which consisted of hitting Mrs. Ella Rose in her Morrisville home while they were looking at television.

He testified he slipped on a beer bottle and that he fell and his head struck the head of Mrs. Rose. There was a daughter, Betty, in the Rose house when the defendant struck Mrs. Rose on the side of her head. Morrisville Patrolmen John W. Johnson and Joseph J. Cavanaugh, who arrested Mauro, testified he could give no reason for striking the woman.

Arthur Palmer, 29, 236 Ellisworth street, Phila., who pleaded guilty to drunken driving April 20, when he was arrested by Bristol township Patrolman Charles Shaw, was sentenced by Judge Edward G. Biester to pay a $100 fine, the costs and serve not more than a year in jail.

A second offender, Palmer was arrested for drunken driving in 1947. He was involved this time in an accident with two cars at Bristol Pike and Rogers road, Bristol township.

"This is the fourth time in court for you," said Judge Biester. "If you hadn't pleaded guilty the sentence would have been longer." Palmer served five days in jail before he could get bail and Judge Biester said that would be deducted from his sentence when he is paroled.

Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite has set Friday, June 13, as the hearing date for a Croydon Manor motorist, Horace L. Beck, 208 Nesaminy road, to appeal from an order of the Department of Revenue, Harrisburg, which suspended his privilege of operating a motor vehicle.

In the Court of Common Pleas, here, the appeal which has been filed in the Prothonotary's office, alleges that Aug. 28, 1951, the defendant, Beck, was operating a truck, and Roland P. Stoltz was driving a motorcycle which collided on Busletown Pike, Feasterville.

A Coroner's Jury Sept. 20, 1951, held the defendant, Beck, for the Grand Jury. The Grand Jury in Quarter Sessions Court Nov. 28, 1951, did not find a true bill on the charges of involuntary manslaughter against Beck.

Trooper John M. McDonough, of the Langhorne State Police substation, who investigated the truck-motorcycle accident, Aug. 28, 1951, charged the defendant, Beck, with driving too fast for conditions. President Judge Hiram H. Keller, following a hearing in criminal court, here, Nov. 7, 1951, dismissed the charge against the defendant.

At a hearing before the Department of Revenue March 20, the defendant's operating privilege was suspended for 90 days, beginning April 29.

Following a judgment given by Justice of the Peace Andrew H. Dillman, Newtown, in favor of the plaintiff, Saba Construction Co., Humesville, for $270, with interest of $29.60, and the costs, an appeal has been filed by Maurice and Claire Crozier, 237 Birch street, Newportville. Charles Schmitt, Pennell, was a witness for the plaintiff at the April 4 hearing when Justice of the Peace Dillman gave judgment in favor of the plaintiff.

maker picket, Felix Barnsky, 37, whether a structural iron worker didn't have the right to cross a picket line and enter the Fairless Works, Falls twp.

"Yes, I guess he had the right," answered the witness.

"Then, why did you pickets gang-up on the iron workers and prevent them from going to their work?" Barnsky gave no answer.

James Tolbert Effler, 23, Trenton, N. J., who pleaded guilty to carrying a firearm in a vehicle without a license, was fined $25 and the costs, which amounted to more than $100.

Effler, the father of two children, and a native of Tennessee, testified March 27 he reported at the Fairless Works to go to work on his job as an iron worker.

"I had no trouble getting in the main gate and I went to ask my boss to 'have off' for several hours because I had a tooth which had to be pulled and I wanted to go to Trenton," said the defendant.

"When I returned about 11 o'clock there were between 200 and 300 men picketing the entrance at the steel plant. One of them said, 'Jerk him out of the car.' Another said, 'Bust his skull,' and the way they gangued-up on me I was afraid they would upset my car.

"I brought the automatic up and pointed it toward the front of the car, after warning them three times, 'Take your hands off my car.' Then a cop came and grabbed me," said the defendant.

Trooper Duane C. Allen, of the Langhorne State Police, testified he was in plainclothes and milling around among the pickets.

"The defendant told me he had it for his own protection," Trooper Allen testified.

"The defendant, who said in Tennessee it is not necessary to have a special permit, said the pistol was registered with the New Jersey Police Department in Trenton, N. J.

President Judge Keller expressed disgust when the testimony revealed that several hundred pickets assembled on the highway at the main entrance preventing workers from entering.

was an economical way for the Borough to be improved. He added that there was every indication that the Highway dept. will install storm water conduits that will take the excess water underground.

Walter Farley, a resident of Richboro Ave., asked if it was the individual property owners responsibility to have the sidewalks and curb installed and he was quickly assured that it was. Councilman May then presented the example of a group, faced with the same problem, who had let bids to one man for the whole job and then had paid on a frontage basis.

Mr. Farley and Councilman May indulged in restrained disagreement concerning this point for the remainder of the evening.

Farley stated, "If it is each property owner's responsibility, then each property owner is being saddled with the council's responsibility. In other boroughs, such as Swarthmore, the entire business was done by the council."

and then liens were placed on the property. In cases like this the landowners were given a number of years to pay for the improvements."

May replied, "We (the council) are not in the finance business. You are asking the council to accept your responsibility. Besides there is some real doubt that the council has the right to finance the project."

This prompted Farley to ask, "What is the purpose of council? What are you elected for?" May stated, "We are elected to administer. We will give you all possible assistance to help yourselves, to which Farley retorted, "Everyones business is no-ones business."

Ralph Dwinell, also of Richardson Ave., supported Farley. He stated that the council was asking that the property owners set up small local governments to do this job. He added that as far as he knew, none of the 65 landowners objected to either the improvements or to paying for them, but that it was a question of procedure.

There was a discussion of the 30 days granted in which the project must be begun. The property owners present felt that this was not sufficient time for them to contact the other residents and let and accept bids. It was explained by the council that the matter is being rushed by the State Highway dept. and that the Borough is in no position to do anything about the schedule. If the project is not begun within 30 days, then the borough will have it done and liens will be placed on the properties. Any recommendation on the part of the landowners that they fail to meet within the time requirements and then the Borough will do the job, were stifled by Secretary William Palmer who quoted an ordinance to the effect that such action was liable to a 10% fine.

Police Chief William E. Arnwine and Constable Jesse Hibbs presented their police reports. The total violations included, 12 stop signs passing; three accidents; one passing at intersection; one reckless driving; three calls on providers; one obstruction of traffic; two missing children recovered; one stolen tire; and one call on malicious mischief.

Chief Arnwine appealed to the council for a police car, stating that it would then be possible to catch more of the speeders that are making Langhorne streets unsafe. He seemed sure that the car would be paid for shortly on collected fines. The council took the matter under advisement.

TERCHON AND LEWIS LODGE LEAD LEAGUE

The Bristol Clubmen's Softball League got under way this week with the Clinton Lewis Lodge, last year's champs beating the Loyal Order of Moose by a 7 to 4 score on Monday evening on the Memorial field.

Wednesday evening the Vets took a 9 to 0 game from the No. 1 Fire Co. and followed that win with a 10 to 6 win over last year's playoff champs the St. Ann's A. A. on Thursday evening on the high school field.

In the St. Ann's - Vets game the Vets got off to a seven run lead in the first inning when they collected four hits, a walk and two errors the Saints kept nipping away at the lead and were only one run behind when the Vets stepped up in the last inning and collected three more runs on three walks and a hit. Joe Roe was the big man with the stick for the Vets collecting three for four while Gene Field got two for three for the Saints.

The game was well played for so early in the season and both teams took advantage of every break.

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

John Baker, Jr.
Pinch-Hitting for Joe Elbertson

Club Meeting . . . The Bristol Fish and Game Protective Association, Inc., will hold its monthly meeting, Tuesday, June 10th at eight p.m. in the Bracken Post Home, Radcliffe street. In addition to the club business session, the entertainment committee has secured films "Spring Fever" and "Alaska Sport Fishing".

It's getting to be a big boy now . . . The membership drive of Bristol Fish and Game Protective Ass'n, Inc., is rounding the last turn and coming into the home stretch for a grand finish to a goal set at 1000 members for 1952 by committee chairman, "Ollie" Hobbs. Hobbs has been doing a thorough job of encouraging membership by pressing home to each member to try to enroll at least 10 new members in Bristol area who may have an interest in conservation, restoration and propagation of wildlife and environs. The 1952 membership is now well past the 500 mark and from all indications the future looks promising for the goal of 1000.

There is a grand prize of a model 94, 20-30 caliber Winchester rifle, to be won by the hard-working member who enrolls the largest number of members before the meeting on June 10. The winner will be announced June 10th and presentation of the rifle will be made at the association's quarterly meeting July 8th. This rifle was donated by Bristol Hardware Co.

The association is a non-profit organization which was organized in 1914 and incorporated in 1942 for better protection of our forest, streams, fish, game and insectivorous birds, and promotion of a healthful outdoor recreation. It is believed to be one of the largest growing sportsmen's organizations in Lower Bucks county. With its many busy committees of various activity, there should be a spot for every outdoor lover to find his rightful place. In addition to being affiliated with Bucks Co. Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, National Rifle Association (Class A) and the Middle Atlantic Casting Association, the Bristol Club has separate committees for entertainment, refreshment, fish and game distribution, archery, surf casting, rifle practice (every Monday night at the Bristol Y. M. C. A. building) and monthly blue rock shoots (2nd Sunday of each month at the club grounds—Route 13, west of Bath road).

The following is a most recent release from "Ken" Jenks, Secretary of the association, to acquaint you with its share in the program during 1951: "The . . . Association has been operating with a very nominal membership, in comparison to the number of licensed sportsmen in the Bristol area.

"Yet, in view of this rather small membership we have been able to bring the hunters, fishermen and all those persons, in our area who enjoy outdoor activity, many advantages and means by which they might obtain greater benefits from the Activity of their choosing.

"The following is a brief summary of the results of our efforts for the year, 1951: Club membership . . . Bucks Co. Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, National Rifle Ass'n—Class A, Middle Atlantic Casting Ass'n; Monthly Blue Rock Shoots . . . club grounds; Pheasant stocking . . . 84 club raised and club liberated adult birds, 62 state raised and club liberated adult birds, 15 federation raised and club liberated adult birds; Fish stocking . . . assisted in stocking of 14,000 fish in local fishing waters.

"In addition, we are ever on the alert to take exception to and add our strength toward the defeat of any proposed legislation we feel would be detrimental to the well being of all sportsmen.

"We produce this record with pride but at the same time sincerely wish that it had greater proportions. We are sure that greater proportions could be obtained through a club membership more in keeping with the number of licensed sportsmen afield and along the streams."

Local gossip and tips . . . Bluefish are still providing excellent sport all along the Jersey coast; top bait for the surf fisherman is butterfish; metal and feathered lures are the favorites for boat trolling.

Striped bass are still responding for the chum fisherman, anchored along the rock jetty of Barnegat light, live shrimp is being used for chum, and the fish are being taken as heavy as 20 pounds.

Locally, the river is providing some very fine catches of channel cats and white perch; dung worms and small pieces of fresh beef are two of the best baits.

Mail your old duck stamp attached to your hunting license to: The Federation News, 1038 N. 21st St., Allentown, Pa. and you will receive 30 cents in return.

The linen mesh of your dip-net is one of the best ways to remove fish slime from your hands after handling your catch.

FRANKLIN LEAPS INTO DEADLOCK FOR 2ND PLACE

Franklin A. C. jumped into a deadlock for second place in the Bristol Softball League by overwhelming Pacific Steel, 14-4, last evening in a one-sided match on Memorial Park. The loss dropped the boiler-makers into the cellar.

Franklin tagged Bob Caione for 15 hits, including home runs by Toby Oriola, Bert Barbetta, and Paul Paolillo. Joe Ciaella had three hits while Dezy DeLise crossed the plate four times.

Pacific Steel was held to seven hits by Paolillo who coasted to the win after his mates gave him a 9-0 lead in the first three frame. Vince DiTanna and Frank Lucetti made four of the loser's hits.

IS POVERTY POPULAR?
Do people like poverty, filth and disease? Or do people who live under such conditions merely oppose change? Are they too lazy and good-for-nothing to do something about it?
In Egypt, for instance, where two thirds of village families have incomes of less than a dollar a day, it is widely held that the villagers don't want anything better—they resent change.
The Rockefeller Foundation, after working for four and one-half years with Egyptian villages, refutes this conclusion. Members of the mission are not Egyptians, but they assert they put the theory to severe tests in five villages.

In four, they made major changes with the help of the villagers. They tore down most of the sagging, unsanitary homes, persuaded the villagers to stop keeping livestock in the house, and generally changed the face of the community.
In the fifth village they avoided turning things topsy-turvy, and merely helped provide sewage disposal, fly control and clean water.

What happened? Residents of the fifth village began to complain. Why weren't they getting all the fine things provided for the other four villages? As the news spread people from villages outside the five began to demand changes in their towns, too. And they wanted to help bring them about.
The notion that the poor oppose change and are apathetic is not wholly false. But give them real hope—anywhere in the world—and they'll respond.

VAN FLEET STEPS IN
As if U. S. troubles in Korea were not plentiful enough, President Syngman Rhee and the National Assembly of the South Korean Republic are engaged in a bitter feud. And President Rhee has chosen to bring the quarrel to a climax just at this time by imposing martial law on the country.
It is true that to invoke martial law is not unusual in a country that has been through the crises that have been Korea's lot during these last two years. But it looks as though Rhee may intend to have a showdown with the National Assembly. The result, either way, would not make the task of the U. S. easier.
That is the thinking, no doubt, that led General Van Fleet to make a special trip to Pusan, temporary capital of South Korea, for a conference with Rhee. It is noteworthy that General Van Fleet did not wait until this situation had gotten out of hand. There has been too much of that in Korea recently.

Illinois man left his $40,000 stake in trust for the benefit of his 12 dogs, thus contributing, no doubt, to unrest among the canine population.

president of the Penna. State Education Ass'n, reminded that "in the field of scientific development the world has made undreamed of progress; in the social world men are being concerned with the poor and the unfortunate and are using their resources to push forward the good of all; in the world of the spiritual we can take into account those values we hold dear."
"So I say to you young men and young women that never before has there been thrown into the world of opportunity so rich and varied an assortment of possibilities for growth and development. . . . Numerous are the fields open to trained young folk. There is nothing at all too big or too far away or too distantly removed from your reach that should cause disillusionment." He added that if the choice was his, "I could ask for nothing more than to be thrown into 1952 at the age of 18 or 20 with the vast challenge before me." He stated: "With confidence in the future it is possible to earn a livelihood with a reasonable amount of work. But remember it is all bound up with the doctrine of hard work. . . . There is no easy way to success. A hint of any other reason is spurious. . . . In addition to hard work there are certain other factors you young people should consider. One is the ability to distinguish between right and wrong—the building of character." The need of "back-bone" was stressed, and "wishy-washy" thinking was derided. "Such can ruin America," he warned.

The attributes of courtesy, consideration, unselfishness and willingness to please and to help others were held out as being necessary for a full-fold life. Development of self-respect, self-reliance and dignity were impressed upon the graduates. "All in all, these mean the building of the kind of citizenship we in America have been so proud of all these years."
In regard to respect for law and authority, Dr. Noonan had this to say: "Let us not, in these days of loose thinking, be fooled by false doctrine that people can do as they please. Let us recognize those traditional values which need to be considered." One point strongly brought out was: "This matter of recognizing God, this matter of building in all our relationships some communication with a Divine Being . . . is almost at the top of the things we should do. It will act as a bulwark to our democratic ideals to which we all subscribe."

Dr. Heckman paid tribute to the parents of the graduates who had aided in keeping the young folks in school to finish their courses, and asked that all those parents rise for a round of applause. He paid especial tribute also to the following teachers who had assisted with the commencement program and projects: Miss Georgiana Staehle, William E. Macht, Paul T. Haas, Robert W. Hassell (class advisor), Stanley D. Howell, Mrs. Rosemaine E. Macht, Miss Joan L. Matten.

Dr. Heckman mentioned that with 2300 pupils in a 25 square mile area, under 80 instructors, and with the area fast-growing, problems are increasing. He foresaw soon a high school of 1500. The superintendent of schools mentioned that half sessions will be necessary for the high school next year, adding "Regardless of what conditions are, the faculty will do all possible to provide the best education possible."

The invocation was by the Rev. John Harvey, pastor of Langhorne Presbyterian Church; benediction by the Rev. Curtis L. Loux of Oakhurst Chapel, Penndel. The high school band and chorus provided selections. Address of welcome was by Donald Leitch, class president. The following awards were presented by Dr. Heckman:

BRISTOL BOWLERS SCORE LOW TOTAL IN ABC 'TOURNEY'

MILWAUKEE, June 6—The Auto Boys bowling team rolling in the National Tournament, at Milwaukee, Wisconsin scored a very low total in the team event.

In the two-man event the teams of Moore-Sutton and Dutcavich-Plavin rolled better than average scores and finished "in the money".

In the individual event Abe Gerhart was the only man to finish "in the money" with his 612 total.

The thrill of bowling in an American Bowling Congress is "out of this world"—and despite the disappointing scores the Auto Boys bowling team will in all likelihood try again at Chicago next year.

highest, he also was rising in civilian activities. He moved by stages up to membership of the Republican State Committee in 1912; was successively State Auditor General and State Treasurer; served from 1928 to 1934 as State Chairman of the Republican Party; was delegate to five national conventions; served a term as Governor, and is now completing a term as U. S. Senator.

What is true of General Martin in this respect, that regardless of his military service he was so broadly experienced in civilian affairs that he was a citizen first and a soldier second—this is true of all American military men who have previously risen to the post of Presidency. It is untrue, however, of General Eisenhower, whose contacts with politics, for example, were so sketchy that he never fully made up his mind which party he belonged to until friends showed him how he might capture the Republican nomination.

The magazine "U. S. News", edited by David Lawrence, this week reviews this subject, and presents a variety of distorted statements outlining the pro-Eisenhower case. Among the comments contained is the assertion that Eisenhower, if elected, "would be the first professional soldier to go to the White House since Grant."

This concedes, of course, that all other military figures from the Civil War who became President, or were nominated therefore, were not "professional soldiers" and for that reason established no precedents for Eisenhower.

But the comparison with Grant is most interesting. To begin with, a great many persons feel that Grant was insufficiently trained for the political responsibilities of the Presidency, although the fact is that his experience was infinitely greater than that of Eisenhower. The common sentiment is that Grant's two terms were riddled with favoritism and the bartering of governmental concessions; and moreover that Grant's unfortunate attempt to win a third term left lasting scars on the Republican Party.

What was Grant's record as a "professional" soldier? If you piece the story together from such works as "Personal History of U. S. Grant (1868)" and his own "Personal Memoirs (1885)" you find that Grant was sent to West Point in 1838 by his father as a convenient means of getting an education for his son, who didn't like farming; graduated in 1843 (21st on a list of 39); served eleven years, including the Mexican War, of which he made the biting comment that it was "a political war"; remained in the army with steadily waning enthusiasm until 1854, when at the age of 32 he commenced, as a civilian, a "struggle for the support" of his family.

gaged in the real estate business, clerked in his father's store, became more and more interested in the political issues of those trying times, aided the Governor of Illinois in mustering several regiments of volunteers in the early days of the Civil War, and on May 24, 1861, wrote to the U. S. Adjutant General tendering his own services "in such capacity as may be offered" until the close of the war.

Grant became well acquainted with the personnel of the U. S. Army command, as he himself comments. But he was hopelessly out of tune with brass-hat thinking, as, again, he himself brings out. It was, in fact, because as a commander and strategist he differed radically from the professional military clique of his day that he became a successful general, and with Lincoln's support was rapidly boosted into the supreme command.

From the end of the war in 1865 to the time he was nominated for the Presidency in 1868, although continuing in his military rank, General Grant served as a sort of elder statesman, becoming Secretary of War under Johnson, and passing upon quite as many non-military issues as those concerning the armed services.

Does this bring out the point? If, as is generally accepted, Grant was too ill-prepared by civilian experience to do justice to the Presidency, despite the fact that his entire military experience, West Point included, was only a little over twenty years when he moved into the White House—then how much worse off is General Eisenhower, totally devoid of practical political experience, and in fact engrossed by his military career since boyhood?

Leonard Mauro, 27, formerly of Bristol, now of 33 Meredith road, Trenton, N. J., was sentenced by Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite to serve not less than nine nor more than 18 months in the County Prison.

He was convicted by a jury of assault and battery April 10, which consisted of hitting Mrs. Ella Rose in her Morrisville home while they were looking at television.

He testified he slipped on a beer bottle and that he fell and his head struck the head of Mrs. Rose. There was a daughter, Betty, in the Rose house when the defendant struck Mrs. Rose on the side of her head. Morrisville Patrolmen John W. Johnson and Joseph J. Cavanaugh, who arrested Mauro, testified he could give no reason for striking the woman.

Arthur Palmer, 29, 236 Ellsworth street, Phila., who pleaded guilty to drunken driving April 29, when he was arrested by Bristol township Patrolman Charles Shaw, was sentenced by Judge Edward G. Blester to pay a $100 fine, the costs and serve not more than a year in jail.

A second offender, Palmer was arrested for drunken driving in 1947. He was involved this time in an accident with two cars at Bristol Pike and Rogers road, Bristol township.

"This is the fourth time in court for you," said Judge Blester. "If you hadn't pleaded guilty the sentence would have been longer." Palmer served five days in jail before he could get bail and Judge Blester said that would be deducted from his sentence when he is paroled.

Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite has set Friday, June 13, as the hearing date for a Croydon Manor motorist, Horace L. Beck, 208 Neshaminy road, to appeal from an order of the Department of Revenue, Harrisburg, which suspended his privilege of operating a motor vehicle.

In the Court of Common Pleas, here, the appeal which has been filed in the Prothonotary's office, alleges that Aug. 28, 1951, the defendant, Beck, was operating a truck, and Roland P. Stoltz was driving a motorcycle which collided on Bustleton Pike, Feasterville.

A coroner's jury Sept. 20, 1951, held the defendant, Beck, for the Grand Jury. The Grand Jury in Quarter Sessions Court Nov. 28, 1951, did not find a true bill on the charges of involuntary manslaughter against Beck.

Trooper John M. McDonough, of the Langhorne State Police, substitution, who investigated the truck-motorcycle accident, Aug. 28, 1951, charged the defendant, Beck, with driving too fast for conditions. President Judge Hiram H. Keller, following a hearing in criminal court, here, Nov. 7, 1951, dismissed the charge against the defendant.

At a hearing before the Department of Revenue March 20, the defendant's operating privilege was suspended for 90 days, beginning April 29.

Following a judgment given by Justice of the Peace Andrew H. Dillman, Newtown, in favor of the plaintiff, Saba Construction Co., Halmerville, for $270, with interest of $29.60, and the costs, an appeal has been filed by Maurice and Claire Crozier, 237 Birch street, Newportville. Charles Schmitt, Pennell, was a witness for the plaintiff at the April 4 hearing when Justice of the Peace Dillman gave judgment in favor of the plaintiff.

maker picket, Felix Barnsky, 37, whether a structural iron worker didn't have the right to cross a picket line and enter the Fairless Works, Falls twp.

"Yes, I guess he had the right," answered the witness.

"Then, why did you pickets gang-up on the iron workers and prevent them from going to their work?" Barnsky gave no answer.

James Tolbert Effler, 23, Trenton, N. J., who pleaded guilty to carrying a firearm in a vehicle without a license, was fined $25 and the costs, which amounted to more than $100.

Effler, the father of two children, and a native of Tennessee, testified March 27 he reported at the Fairless Works to go to work on his job as an iron worker.

"I had no trouble getting in the main gate and I went to ask my boss to 'have off' for several hours because I had a tooth which had to be pulled and I wanted to go to Trenton," said the defendant.

"When I returned about 11 o'clock there were between 200 and 300 men picketing the entrance at the steel plant. One of them said, 'Jerk him out of the car.' Another said, 'Bust his skull,' and the way they gangled-up on me I was afraid they would upset my car."

"I brought the automatic up and pointed it toward the front of the car, after warning them three times, 'Take your hands off my car.' Then a cop came and grabbed me," said the defendant.

Trooper Duane C. Allen, of the Langhorne State Police, testified he was in plainclothes and milling around among the pickets.

"The defendant told me he had it for his own protection," Trooper Allen testified.

The defendant, who said in Tennessee it is not necessary to have a special permit, said the pistol was registered with the New Jersey Police Department in Trenton, N. J.

President Judge Keller expressed disgust when the testimony revealed that several hundred pickets assembled on the highway at the main entrance preventing workers from entering.

About 70 cars passed through the picket line, which was established about six o'clock in the morning, before the crowd became so large that it was impossible to drive without knocking men down.

was an economical way for the Borough to be improved. He added that there was every indication that the Highway dept. will install storm water conduits that will take the excess water underground.

Walter Farley, a resident of Richboro Ave., asked if it was the individual property owners responsibility to have the sidewalks and curb installed and he was quickly assured that it was. Councilman May then presented the example of a group, faced with the same problem, who had let bids to one man for the whole job and then had paid on a frontage basis.

Mr. Farley and Councilman May indulged in restrained disagreement concerning this point for the remainder of the evening.

May replied, "We (the council) are not in the finance business. You are asking the council to accept your responsibility. Besides there is some real doubt that the council has the right to finance the project."

"This prompted Farley to ask, 'What is the purpose of council?' What are you elected for?" May stated, "We are elected to administer. We will give you all possible assistance to help yourselves" to which Farley retorted, "Everyones business is no-ones business."

Ralph Dwinell, also of Richboro Ave., supported Farley. He stated that the council was asking that the property owners set up small local governments to do this job. He added that as far as he knew, none of the 65 landowners objected to either the improvements or to paying for them, but that it was a question of procedure.

There was a discussion of the 20 days granted in which the project must be begun. The property owners present felt that this was not sufficient time for them to contact the other residents and let and accept bids. It was explained by the council that the matter is being rushed by the State Highway dept. and that the Borough is in no position to do anything about the schedule. If the project is not begun within 30 days, then the borough will have it done and liens will be placed on the properties. Any recommendation on the part of the landowners that they fail to meet within the time requirements and then the Borough will do the job, were stifled by Secretary William Palmer who quoted an ordinance to the effect that such action was liable to a 10% fine.

Police Chief William E. Arnwine and Constable Jesse Hibbs presented their police reports. The total violations included, 12 stop signs passing; three accidents; one passing at intersection; one reckless driving; three calls on prowlers; one obstruction of traffic; two missing children recovered; one stolen tire; and one call on malicious mischief.

Chief Arnwine appealed to the council for a police car, stating that it would then be possible to

four hits, a walk and two errors the Saints kept nipping away at the lead and were only one run behind when the Vets stepped up in the last inning and collected three more runs on three walks and a hit. Joe Roe was the big man with the stick for the Vets collecting three for four while Gene Field got two for three for the Saints. The game was well played for so early in the season and both teams took advantage of every break.
